Do you have something special you look forward to doing? Something tomorrow, next week, next year, or even 30 years from now. I'm excited for my "Sweet 16" Girls Trip. Going to England and riding around France are both reasons I look forward to my "Sweet 16".

I've always wanted to go to England before I'm 18. Seeing the royals or their castle would feel like I'm the queen myself. Meeting the queen or the princess of England, or at least touching their hand. Man, that would be a story to tell. The Aurora Borealis in England is beautiful. To me, the Northern Lights are one of the prettiest things on Earth.

Paris, is the "City of Love", which makes it one of my favorite places even if I haven't been yet. The Eiffel Tower is #1 on the list of buildings I have to see before I die. It's so pulchritudinous at night with all of its lights. Ooh La La! The bakeries with all the sweet pasteries and luscious macaroons make Paris so much better. Paris is a comely city, or, better yet, my favorite. Paris, je t'aime!

Can't you see why I'm excited for my "Sweet 16" Girls Trip? Visiting England and taking a trip to France is beyond any doubt, something I look forward to doing.

I chose this piece because I am really interested in Europe and am so excited to get to go there. I was able to use figurative language, like "city of love." I also was able to add in some French. I learned that from reading my American Girl Doll book. I really like getting to talk about what I think is going to happen in the future.

When I am writing, I like to make up stories the most. My favorite thing to read is fantasy. Free writing is my favorite time. I am working on writing a Christmas Babysitter's Club book.

This year, I have grown as a writer by being able to add a lot more to my pieces. At the beginning of the year, I wasn't writing as much. Feedback from Mr. Martin, quick writes, and goals have helped me become a better writer this year.
